Key Features of the Workflow

For the Library

- Individual Research Dashboard accounts to approve article eligibility under the agreement
- Libraries have full control over which articles to approve
- Real time self service reporting
- Reduces administration around OA
- Dedicated workflow contacts at T&F

For the Researcher

- Affiliation based workflow: matching engine identifies eligibility
- Clear messaging at each stage of the process to alert them to the agreement in place
- Communication to confirm funding approval
- Choice of Creative Commons licence

Re: Article Title; Journal Title

Congratulations on the recent acceptance of your manuscript submission to Journal Title. The Taylor & Francis production team will work with you to publish your article online as quickly as possible.

We would like to let you know that your institution has an open access agreement with Taylor & Francis, which means you may be eligible for funding to publish your article open access. We have let them know that your paper has been accepted and shared your article information, including your email address.

What happens next?

It's important to know that not all articles will be eligible for funding under this agreement, so please click here to view the latest information.

If your institution approves open access funding for your article, we will let you know. You may also request approval by selecting the open access option.

Look out for an email inviting you to select and sign your article publishing agreement.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact apc@tandf.co.uk, or your librarian.

Subject: Gold Open Access funding approval for your article

Body:

Dear Author First Name Last Name,

Re: Article Title; Journal Title

We recently emailed you to let you know that your institution has an open access agreement with Taylor & Francis. We're pleased to let you know that your library has approved Gold Open Access funding for your article through their Research Dashboard.

This means that your article will be published open access; it will be available online for anyone to read, anywhere.

What happens next?

If you have already signed an open access publishing agreement, you don't need to do anything.

If you have not yet signed a publishing agreement, or have already signed a non-open access publishing agreement, then you will receive an email asking you to sign a new publishing agreement. You will be asked to choose a Creative Commons licence, you can find more information about licence choice here. <http://authorservices.taylorandfrancis.com/publishing-agreements-your-options>. Please note that this can take 24 to 48 hours to reach you.

You will not be asked for any payment.

If you have any queries, please contact apc@tandf.co.uk

Best wishes,

Have you considered open access?

Open access offers greater accessibility, visibility and impact for your research. Articles published open access with Taylor & Francis typically receive 32% more citations* and over 6 times as many downloads** compared to those not published open access.

Your funder or institution may recommend, or mandate publishing open access and provide funding to cover the Article Publishing Charge (APC).

We have open access agreements with consortia and institutions globally. Please click here to see if your institution has an open access agreement with Taylor & Francis.

To make your article open access you will need to:

- Get a quote for the article publishing charge and inform us who will pay
- Choose a Creative Commons license

We will do everything else necessary to make your article open access.

If you choose not to make your article open access, it will be available to readers who have subscribed to the journal. There will be no article publishing charge and you will need to sign an appropriate author publishing license.

*Citations received up to Jan 31st 2020 of articles published between 2015-2019 in hybrid journals that are listed in Web of Science®.

**Usage in 2017-2019 of articles published in hybrid journals in 2015-2019.

Do you want to make your article open access for anyone to read online?

We sent the information about your article and funding onto your Organization's Open Access team to review.

Unfortunately, your request for this article has been declined. I am happy to say there are still options available to you to make your article Open Access if you are still interested.

You can make your final article Open Access through payment of a charge (Gold) or you can archive an earlier version of your article without any charge to you (Green). For the Gold option, you can pay the article publishing charge (APC) yourself or via another funder or source. Please find a revised APC quote attached, if you would like to choose this option please complete the quote here
